INTRODUCTION

An officially recognised institution for language mediation, translation and interpreting.

La Scuola Superiore per Mediatori Linguistici Pisa is officially recognised by the Ministero dell'Università e della Ricerca (Ministry of Education, Universities and Research) and is accredited under Decreto Ministeriale 31.07.2003 and Decreto Ministeriale 09.01.2020 to offer undergraduate (Laurea Triennale) and postgraduate (Laurea Magistrale) programmes, as outlined in this catalogue.

These accreditations ensure the quality of our academic offerings and position us as a leading institution in the field of language education in Italy.

Graduates of SSML Pisa are equipped with strong linguistic and intercultural competencies, developed through sustained, immersive training in multiple languages reinforced by a curriculum that blends academic rigour with real-world application.

Thanks to a hands-on, workshop-based approach and small class sizes, students gain practical experience in translation, interpreting, mediation, and sector-specific language from their first year of study.

The school's close links with businesses and institutions, both in Italy and abroad, offer students ample opportunities for internships, Erasmus+ mobilities, and direct engagement with the professional world. This combination of intensive language study, applied learning, and international exposure ensures that SSML graduates are fluent, confident, and workplace-ready.

UNDERGRADUATE ENTRY

Three languages, taught entirely by native speakers.

To gain access to the SSML Bachelor's programme, students must pass an entrance exam attesting to a minimum B2 CEFR level in English and a B1 level in one other language chosen from Chinese, German, French, Russian, Spanish, and Arabic. Students can start any of the Language B options from complete beginner thanks to our preparatory year. Preparatory year students are enrolled for eight semesters instead of six.

~10h

WEEKLY · LANGUAGE A

~10h

WEEKLY · LANGUAGE B
(CHOICE)

2h

WEEKLY · LANGUAGE C
(3RD)

Students at the SSML receive approximately 10 hours of weekly in-class instruction in English and around 10 hours in their Language B, totalling approximately 400 hours of in-class time with instructors over the academic year.

In addition to their two main study languages, every student is also required to select a third language (Language C) from among Arabic, Chinese, French, Korean, Japanese, Portuguese, Russian or Spanish. These general language and culture courses are designed to take students from absolute beginner to B1 level over their three years of study. Students who have already studied French or Spanish may opt to take courses in these languages to maintain their proficiency, rather than learning a new language.

TRANSLATION AND INTERPRETING CURRICULUM

BA · FOCUS

SPECIALISED PROGRESSION

From general writing to specialist translation and interpreting in real professional domains.

Each semester of the three-year programme is dedicated to a specialist field. Students work on technical and specialist texts from the same domain across their translation and interpreting modules, regardless of their chosen language combination.

Y1

GENERAL INTEREST AND TOURISM

Y2

TECHNOLOGY, SCIENCE, TECHNICAL FIELDS, MARKETING, AND BUSINESS COMMUNICATION

Y3

POLITICS, JOURNALISM, INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS, LAW, AND HEALTHCARE

FIRST YEAR · FOUNDATIONS

Audience-aware general translation and liaison interpreting

Students begin with informative and non-specialist texts for a general readership and from the tourism sector developing accuracy, coherence, register control, and expressive fluency.

SECOND YEAR · APPLIED DOMAINS

Technology, marketing and business

Students move into bidirectional translation, consecutive interpreting and simultaneous interpreting into Italian with texts from commercial, technological, scientific and technical fields.

THIRD YEAR · ETHICS & RESPONSIBILITY

Sensitive, technical and high-impact texts

The final year focuses on politically nuanced, journalistic and institutional texts, legal texts and translation and interpreting in medical contexts. Students work on precision, ethical responsibility, risk awareness, accessibility and professional standards.

Translating and interpreting texts from a wide variety of genres goes beyond language and terminology training. It equips students to become highly adaptable lifelong learners with advanced analytical and decision-making skills.

SEMESTER-BY-SEMESTER FOCUS

A structured path through increasingly specialised domains.

YEAR 1 · SEMESTER 1

General interest

Introduction to translation for a general readership, with focus on functional equivalence, core strategies, sentence-level accuracy and paragraph coherence.

YEAR 1 · SEMESTER 2

Travel and tourism

Writing, translation and interpreting practice supported by text analysis, genre awareness, stylistic flexibility and control of tone and register.

YEAR 2 · SEMESTER 1

Science, technology, and technical fields

Translation and interpreting of technological discourse, with emphasis on terminology, evolving lexis, digital resources and clear transfer of technical information.

YEAR 2 · SEMESTER 2

Economics, marketing and business communication

Commercially oriented texts, advertising copy, product descriptions, corporate communication and digital marketing, with focus on transcreation and brand voice.

YEAR 3 · SEMESTER 1

International affairs, geopolitics, law and journalism

News, editorials, policy documents and institutional communication, with attention to framing, bias, loaded language, accountability and ethical translation choices.

YEAR 3 · SEMESTER 2

Medical and healthcare translation

Patient information, clinical reports, research summaries and public health communication, with focus on terminology, clarity, confidentiality and risk awareness.
